We service the following languages: English German Spanish Swedish Portugese Russian Chinese French Italian Japanese Vietnamese What is a feed reader? a feed reader is a special type of browser that you can use to automatically download new content from RSS feeds. Why use a feed reader? Feed readers simplify reading content from websites by automatically downloading and displaying text from RSS feeds. Feed readers typically feature a news display pane that can be customized to aggregate the feeds you view the most. By accessing RSS feeds, you can learn what topics are currently popular on a particular website and would like to bookmark for the future, and you can notify yourself of breaking news. Feed readers can also be used for tracking current events. Feed readers and aggregators differ in the ways they display and store links to RSS feeds. Some feed readers cache each RSS feed or all your RSS feeds in a single location on your computer, and some feed readers store your feeds in a MySQL or PostgreSQL database or on a remote data source such as a
